Flying Lessons & Other Stories

Edited by Ellen Oh

Activity Book

This Activity Book contains activity pages that accompany the lessons from the Unit 1 Teacher Guide. The activity pages are organized and numbered according to the lesson number and the order in which they are used within the lesson. For example, if there are two activity pages for Lesson 4, the first will be numbered 4.1 and the second 4.2. The Activity Book is a student component, which means each student should have an Activity Book.

Letter to Family

Unit 1

Our class will begin a unit in English language arts in which students will read selections from Flying Lessons & Other Stories, edited by Ellen Oh, children's author and cofounder of We Need Diverse Books (WNDB). Flying Lessons & Other Stories has been widely praised by Time Magazine, Booklist, Kirkus Reviews, School Library Journal, and the Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books.

In this unit, students will read short stories written by some of today's best middle-grades authors from a wide array of cultures and experiences, including Walter Dean Myers, Meg Medina, Grace Lin, Jacqueline Woodson, and other popular, award-winning children's writers. These stories and our classroom discussion will give students the opportunity to explore the diverse backgrounds represented in our classroom, our community, and our country. The topic of cultural diversity in America is a timely one. The stories in Flying Lessons & Other Stories help readers recognize and appreciate the things that make each of us different—and the things we have in common.

These short stories deal with challenging issues that middle school students may face today, such as divorce, death, racism, and inequality. Throughout this unit, students will be given opportunities and support to reflect about these challenging issues. Note that in the interest of time, students will not be reading all the short stories in Flying Lessons & Other Stories during class time. Some stories that were left out include content that could be challenging or less appropriate for the classroom. If your child wishes to read these stories, you may want to review them or read with your child.

If you have any questions of concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me.

“I told them to use the side entrance,” he says, sighing.

“They should come clean it up,” I snap.

Papi shoots me a warning look. “Quiet, Merci.” His eyes slice through me in a way I’m not expecting. But why? I’m not the one who made this mess.

“But, Papi—”

“Sio”—he hisses.

When I drop my stare down at my shoes, he turns back to Mr. Falco and pastes on a smile. “It’s no problem, sir. They’re children, and accidents happen. We’ll clean it up.”

With those words, my father shrinks before my very eyes. My arms hurt, and I’m thirsty and hot. I feel ugly. My cheeks burn as I stand there, humiliated for all of us.

Read the following excerpt from page 78 of Flying Lessons & Other Stories to answer the following questions about “Secret Samantha.”

Language arts is my best chance to slip Blade her gift if I want to actually watch her open it—and I do!—but I’m scanning the room and there isn’t a strong ninja candidate among any of these people.

All the boys except Ryan P. are terrible secret keepers, and Ryan P. is out today for personal reasons (the rumor in the halls was “lice”). And forget the other girls—they are a giant clique. Frankly, I still feel like the new girl, even with an actual new girl around.

So I do the unthinkable, right by the aquarium. I pull Miss Lee aside.

“Miss Lee, could you please, um, be my ninja?”

She does an ace job of sneaking the makeup kit onto Blade’s desk, because at one point during class Blade goes to the water fountain. When she gets back, I’m wriggling around in my seat so much that it makes the chair squeak.

Blade then does the cutest thing I’ve ever seen a non-kitten do: she takes my origami rabbit card and makes it “hop” across her desk, just for herself. And then she opens the card and her forehead goes red.

Beginning-of-Year Assessment—Reading Comprehension

You will read three selections. After reading the first selection, you will answer several questions based on it. Then, you will read the second selection and answer several questions based on it. Finally, you will read the third selection and answer several questions based on it. Some of the questions have two parts. You should answer Part A of the question before you answer Part B.

Passage 1: from the Core Knowledge Core Classic adaptation of A Midsummer Night's Dream, by William Shakespeare

1. The moonlight shone on the hidden bower where Titania, the fairy queen, lay asleep. Into this part of the wood walked Peter Quince and his fellow workmen, eager to rehearse their play.
2. “Here’s a marvelous convenient place for our rehearsal!” cried Quince. As the workmen walked around, each muttering his lines, and some making grand gestures with their hands and arms—especially Bottom—a grinning fairy looked down upon them.
3. “What hempen homespuns have we swaggering here?” said Puck. At this moment, Bottom strutted by, and Puck could not resist a little magical mischief. With a wink, he gave Bottom the head of a donkey!
4. When Bottom turned back to his fellow workmen, they screamed in horror and ran. Puck laughed and, invisible, he zipped after them, pinching their arms and legs.
5. “Why do you run away?” cried Bottom, who was unaware that his head had been transformed. “I see what you are up to,” said Bottom. “You mean to make an ass of me, to frighten me! Well, I am not afraid! I will walk up and down here and sing.”
6. Bottom sang so loudly that he woke the fairy queen. Titania emerged from her bower and saw the donkey-headed man. The juice of the little purple flower did its magic. She cried out, “What angel wakes me from my flowery bed?” Then she wrapped her arms around Bottom and whispered into his large donkey ear, “I love you. Go with me, and I will give you fairies to attend upon you.”
7. With fairies flitting about him, Bottom followed the queen to her bower.

Questions 1–5 pertain to Passage 1: A Midsummer Night’s Dream, by William Shakespeare.

1. Why do Peter Quince and the workmen enter the woods?
 - A. to sing some songs
 - B. to awaken Titania
 - C. to practice a play
 - D. to play a trick on Puck

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A, and then answer Part B.

2. Part A: What does Puck do to demonstrate that he has magical powers?

Part B: What do these actions reveal about Puck’s point of view in the play?

- A. He wants to be helpful.
- B. He resents the workmen.
- C. He wants to be in the play.
- D. He likes to cause mischief.

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A, and then answer Part B.

3. Part A: A pun is a play on words—the humorous use of a word to suggest two or more of its meanings. Which line from the text contains a pun?
 - A. The moonlight shone on the hidden bower where Titania, the fairy queen, lay asleep.
 - B. Puck could not resist a little magical mischief. With a wink, he gave Bottom the head of a donkey!
 - C. “I see what you are up to,” said Bottom. “You mean to make an ass of me, to frighten me!”
 - D. She cried out, “What angel wakes me from my flowery bed?”

Part B: How does this pun create humor in the text?

4. In an earlier scene, Titania’s husband, Oberon, sprinkles magic juice into her eyes that will make her to fall in love with the first being she sees when she wakes. Explain what events happen as a result of this action.

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A, and then answer Part B.

5. Part A: A theme is an idea or topic that recurs throughout a text. What is a theme in the passage?

- A. trickery
- B. honesty
- C. friendship
- D. disagreement

Part B: In your own words, summarize the events that support the theme.

Passage 2: The Reformation

1. Martin Luther sparked the Reformation, a movement that brought about great religious and political changes. As a young boy growing up in Germany, he could not have known that he would be responsible for such change.
2. Martin Luther was born into a relatively wealthy German family. His father prospered in the copper mining business. His family had enough money to send him to good schools and eventually to the University of Erfurt, one of the best universities in Germany. Luther was an excellent student and earned two degrees. In 1505 CE, at age 21, he decided to pursue a third degree, in law. But six weeks later he had a sudden change of heart.
3. What happened? As Luther later told the story, he was walking home one night when a terrible storm came. Thunder boomed and lightning blazed across the sky. Suddenly a bolt of lightning struck dangerously close, knocking Luther to the ground. As the storm raged around him, the terrified Luther vowed that if he survived, he would give his life to God and become a monk.
4. Luther did survive. True to his promise, but much to his father's dismay, he stopped studying law and entered the Augustinian monastery in Erfurt.
5. Like most Christians of his time, Luther initially accepted what the Church taught—the only way into heaven was to do good works, aid the poor, confess his sins, and follow its teachings. But during the years Luther spent in the monastery at Erfurt, he had a lot of time to read the Bible. He pondered biblical passages—as well as his own beliefs. Like most people of this age, Luther wanted to ensure for himself a place in heaven. He began to question, however, the Church's teachings with regard to what people had to do to make that happen. He also questioned the role of priests in people's lives. His views were a direct challenge to the Church in Rome.
6. After several years, Luther was transferred from Erfurt to a monastery at Wittenberg. There Luther attended the University of Wittenberg. He earned an advanced degree in biblical theology and became a teacher at the university.

7. Luther was a gifted teacher and a powerful speaker. As he continued teaching, he struggled to come to a clearer understanding of his own beliefs and how they differed from Church teachings. He was angered by practices within the Church that he thought were corrupt. In 1517 CE, an event took place that changed Luther's life and ultimately European history.
8. At that time, the Church raised money by issuing indulgences. People believed that indulgences could speed up their journey to heaven and shorten the amount of time they spent in purgatory, a place people believed their souls went before reaching heaven.
9. The practice of issuing indulgences in exchange for money became intolerable for Luther when he heard about a Dominican friar named John Tetzel. Tetzel not only issued indulgences, he proclaimed that as soon as a coin was received by the Church, a soul was released from purgatory. It was essentially saying you could buy the way of a soul into heaven.
10. Outraged, Luther decided to act. He composed a list of 95 objections to the practice of issuing indulgences and sent it in a letter to his superiors. In addition, on October 31, 1517 CE, Luther nailed a copy of this list, later called his Ninety-Five Theses, to the door of the church at the University of Wittenberg. This action was an open invitation to discuss and debate his point of view.

Questions 6–9 pertain to Passage 2: “The Reformation.”

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A, and then answer Part B.

6. Part A: Read the sentences from paragraph 5. Based on what you know about Martin Luther’s years in the monastery at Erfurt, what does the word pondered mean?

But during the years Luther spent in the monastery at Erfurt, he had a lot of time to read the Bible. He pondered biblical passages—as well as his own beliefs.

- A. spoke the truth about something
- B. ignored the consequences of something
- C. thought deeply about something
- D. mocked or made fun of something

Part B: How does this detail help explain why Martin Luther later challenged some of the Church’s practices?

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A, and then answer Part B.

7. Part A: What is the author’s purpose in this text?
- A. to present an opinion about Martin Luther’s ideas about the Church
 - B. to inform the reader about Martin Luther’s role in the Reformation
 - C. to entertain the reader with stories about Martin Luther’s life
 - D. to persuade the reader to agree with Martin Luther’s ideas

Part B: What clues in the text indicate this purpose?

8. Using your own words, explain what the word indulgence means in the text.

9. Why might some people have been afraid to support Martin Luther's ideas? What can you infer about the power of the Catholic Church in Europe during Martin Luther's lifetime? Use evidence from the text to support your answer.

Passage 3: Native Americans

1. The year 1492 CE is a notable date in history—especially American history. Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain in that year to look for a passage to Asia, because that is what he thought he would find across the Atlantic Ocean. Instead, he bumped into a new continent. Columbus’s voyage triggered what some call an Age of Discovery. He was just one of many, many explorers from Spain, England, France, and other European countries to travel across the Atlantic.
2. At first, the Europeans did not know what to call this land. Some called it the West Indies, because they thought it was part of Asia. Later, they named it the Americas, after an Italian explorer named Amerigo Vespucci, who figured out it really was a new continent—or, more precisely, two new continents: North and South America. Many Europeans simply referred to it as the New World because it was not on any of their maps and everything seemed strange and new to them. For Europeans, this New World promised not only new lands but also incredible riches: gold, silver, sugar, tobacco, lumber, animal furs, and a host of other resources. European nations sent armies to fight over these riches, and they sent settlers to harvest them.
3. As you probably know, Columbus was not the first person to find the Americas. European explorers and settlers encountered people everywhere they went. These were the original, or “native,” people of the Americas because they had lived on this land before anyone else. Some Europeans called them Indians, although they were not really in the Indies at all. The name stuck, and that is why you hear the term American Indian today.
4. Beginning in 1492 CE, many things began to change for the indigenous peoples of North and South America. For some, the change came quickly. This was especially true in places such as Mexico and Peru, where the Aztec and Inca empires ruled. Their civilizations fell quickly to Spanish conquerors. The Spanish brought their powerful guns, steel swords, and horses. They (and all other Europeans) also brought diseases against which the native peoples had no natural defenses. By the end of the 1500s, Spanish soldiers and diseases wiped out many groups of people from Mexico through South America.

5. Change was more gradual for Native Americans in the part of North America that later became the United States. Although the early Spanish explorers built several settlements north of Mexico, they did not conquer all of this land. However, the Spanish were not the only Europeans interested in the Americas. The English, French, Portuguese, and Dutch also crossed the ocean in search of riches. They, too, sent explorers, and soon they built settlements and colonies of their own.
6. The English settled at Jamestown, Virginia, where they built a fort in 1607 CE. There, Captain John Smith met Pocahontas and her tribe, the Powhatan. A few years later, in 1620 CE, the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. They interacted with the Wampanoag people, including a man named Tisquantum, also known as Squanto, who helped them learn to survive. The Pilgrims were grateful to Squanto for his help. According to some historical records, the Pilgrims and Native Americans came together for a meal to share the bounty of their harvest. Today we remember and celebrate this meal as Thanksgiving.
7. As with the story of Columbus, the story of Thanksgiving is only a fragment of a much larger story about Native Americans and the impact Europeans had on their world. Unfortunately, the themes of the Thanksgiving story—such as cooperation, friendship, and gratitude—are not common in the history of relations between Native Americans and Europeans.

Questions 10–15 pertain to Passage 3: “Native Americans.”

10. Write a sentence from paragraph 1 that describes one effect of Christopher Columbus’s arrival in the Americas.

11. Why did Europeans begin to call the original people of the Americas “Indians”? Use details from the text to support your answer.

12. In paragraph 4, the author states that “change came quickly” for some indigenous people in North and South America after Europeans arrived. Explain what evidence, if any, the author provides in the paragraph to back up this claim.

13. Read the following passage from paragraph 6.

The English settled at Jamestown, Virginia, where they built a fort in 1607 CE. There, Captain John Smith met Pocahontas and her tribe, the Powhatan. A few years later, in 1620 CE, the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

What text structure is used in the passage?

- A. sequence of events
 - B. compare and contrast
 - C. problem and solution
 - D. main idea and details
14. The text presents the idea that some Native American groups fared better than others when they interacted with Europeans for the first time. Complete the chart for two different contrasting groups.

Name of Native American group	European nation they encountered	What happened to them as a result

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A, and then answer Part B.

15. Part A: What is the central idea of the text?
- A. Christopher Columbus's arrival in the Americas sparked the Age of Discovery.
 - B. Spanish soldiers and diseases wiped out many Native American populations.
 - C. Some Native Americans and Europeans in North America were able to cooperate.
 - D. The arrival of Europeans brought many changes to Native American populations.

The Hare with Many Friends

A hare was very popular with the other beasts, who all claimed to be her friends. But one 18 day she heard the hounds approaching and hoped to escape them by the assistance of her 34 many friends. So she went to the horse and asked him to carry her away from the hounds 52 on his back. But he declined, stating that he had important work to do. “I am confident,” 69 he whinnied, “that your other friends will come to your aid.” 80

The hare then applied to the bull and hoped that he would drive away the hounds with his 98 horns. The bull snorted, “I am very sorry, but I have an appointment with a lady; but I feel 117 sure that your friend the goat will do what you want.” 128

The goat, however, feared that his back would hurt if he took her upon it. The ram, he was 147 certain, was the proper friend to apply to. 155

So the hare went to the ram and asked him for help. The ram grunted, “Another time, 172 my dear friend. I don’t like to interfere, as hounds have been known to eat sheep as well 190
as hares.” 192

As a last resort, the hare then applied to the calf, who regretted that he was unable to help 211 her, as he did not like to take the responsibility upon himself, as so many older animals 228 had declined the task. 232

By this time the hounds were quite near, and the hare took to her heels and luckily 249 escaped. 250

Read and answer each question.

For each sentence, draw a vertical line separating the subject and predicate. Circle the entire subject. Draw a wiggly line under the entire predicate.

1. Gutenberg did not truly invent moveable type.
2. Tribes of the Great Basin built domed houses called wigwams.

Read each pair of sentences about the beginning of printing in Europe. If the information in the pair of sentences is similar, rewrite the two sentences using a transition word or phrase that compares the two sentences. If the information in the pair of sentences is different, combine the sentences using a word or phrase that contrasts the two sentences.

Words and Phrases That Compare	Words and Phrases That Contrast in the same way	on the other hand similarly	however
just as	by contrast
also	instead

3. Plentiful, affordable books opened the door to a whole new world of learning and ideas. Some people did not like this turn of events.

4. Gutenberg didn't make much money from his new printing process. His invention did change the world.

5. The Internet revolutionized how people communicated in the second half of the 20th century. Gutenberg's printing press revolutionized communication in the 15th and 16th centuries.

For each of the following sentences, identify the subject by circling it. Then identify the verb. If it is an action verb, underline it with a straight line. If it is a linking verb, underline it with a wiggly line.

6. Demetrius ran into the clearing.
7. Helena was amazed.
8. Oberon and his sprite hurried away.
9. Helena and Demetrius were by this time awake.

Quotation Marks in Dialogue

- Quotation marks are used to show exactly what a person says or has said (dialogue).
- Quotation marks are used when copying exact words from a written text.
- Quotation marks are placed at the beginning and end of the quoted text or dialogue.

“Where do I find books on early civilizations?” asked Miguella

- The first part of the quotation in the sentence has a capital letter, even if the quotation appears in the middle of the sentence.

The librarian answered, “You can look up the call numbers using the library computer. I’ll show you how.”

- A comma separates the quotation mark from the tag (which tells who is saying the quoted material).

“Thank you,” replied Miguella.

- When a quotation is split within one sentence, quotation marks indicate which part of the sentence is being quoted, and there are two commas—one before the tag and one at the end of the tag.

“I’ll start researching for my report,” said Miguella, “just as soon as I finish gathering sources.”
