Realms of Gold, Volume 3

Activity Book

This Activity Book contains activity pages that accompany the lessons from the Unit 8 Teacher Guide. The activity pages are organized and numbered according to the lesson number and the order in which they are used within the lesson. For example, if there are two activity pages for Lesson 4, the first will be numbered 4.1 and the second 4.2. The Activity Book is a student component, which means each student should have an Activity Book.

Letter to Family

Unit 8

Our class will begin a unit in Language Arts/English in which students will read a variety of poems, short stories, essays, and speeches that span time, history, gender, and culture. Students will read works from poets and writers such as Gwendolyn Brooks, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Emily Dickinson, Allen Ginsberg, Langston Hughes, William Shakespeare, Robert Hayden, Julia de Burgos, Anton Chekhov, and John F. Kennedy.

The selections for the unit will allow students to study the varying forms of the genres as well as sound devices, structural elements, diction, figurative language, and theme. Students will also examine how setting and conflict shape characters and learn how effective essays and speeches are structured. As a form of expression, poetry in particular allows readers to think about topics in creative and unusual ways, stimulating critical thought without the pressure of a right or correct interpretation. Poetry, perhaps more than any other genre, invites students to play with the power of language as a form of expression, highlighting the connections between form and meaning.

This unit will give us the opportunity to discuss the diverse cultural backgrounds represented in our classroom, our community, and our country. Through various oral and written activities, students will explore issues related to ethnicity, gender, and culture as presented in the selections. Students will have several assignments in which they compare and contrast poetic structures, devices, and themes and examine the elements of short stories, essays, and speeches.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Steps to Annotate a Poem

Follow these steps as you annotate the poems you read in this unit.

1. Read through the poem slowly, and write any questions that you think of during the initial reading. Be sure to look at the poem's title and think about what it could mean.
2. Take note of the poem's form. What does it look like on the page? Is it long or short? Does it contain many stanzas or one long block of text?
3. Pay close attention to the opening lines. Do they set the mood and tone of the poem?
4. Identify any words that you do not understand, and look them up. Write the definitions on the poem.
5. Discover and mark rhyme scheme using a new letter for each end rhyme within the poem. Start with the letter A. Also count the number of syllables in each line, and mark the number at the end of the line.
6. Circle words and phrases that seem important or interesting. Do some of the words have connotative as well as literal meanings? What do these words reveal about the speaker's perspective?
7. Highlight examples of figurative language used within the poem, and think about their literal meaning.
8. Identify sound devices such as alliteration, assonance, and consonance. Make a note about how these elements impact the poem.
9. Look for repeated words and phrases. Is there any reason the author would use repetition?
10. Closely examine punctuation. Does it make the speaker seem hesitant, confident, anxious, amused?
11. Reread the poem, take additional notes, and record your thoughts.

Guided Questions for Sonnet 43 “How do I love thee?” and Sonnet 18 “Shall I compare thee . . . ?”

Answer the following questions in complete sentences.

Sonnet 43 “How do I love thee?”

1. Like all Italian sonnets, this poem is fourteen lines with a particular rhyme scheme for the octet, or the first eight lines. What is that rhyme scheme?

---

2. What metaphor does the speaker use in the first eight lines to describe her deep feelings of romantic love?

---

---

---

---

3. An Italian sonnet also has a specific rhythm, or use of meter. Each line contains five sets of how many beats? What is this called?

---

4. From this poem, it's easy to see the speaker is in love; does she think this love will last a lifetime?

---

---

---

---

5. Consider the tone of the poem in relation to the subject. In addition to language already mentioned, consider the statement, "I love thee with the breath, / Smiles, tears, of all my life!" Do you think the tone fits the subject?

---

---

---

---

---

6. The last six lines of the poem, the sestet, indirectly answer the first eight lines; this is a necessary and understood component of this type of sonnet. How is the sestet in "How do I love thee?" an answer to the first eight lines?

Sonnet 18 “Shall I compare thee . . . ?”

7. How does Shakespeare use imagery and diction in the first three lines of this poem to conjure up a vision of something warm, beautiful, and pleasant?

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

8. How does the structure of this Shakespearean sonnet allow more time to build up the theme of the poem than the structure of “How do I love thee?”

---

---

---

---

9. Every person grows older and eventually dies; how does the speaker in Shakespeare's poem insist that his loved one will not die?

---

---

---

---

---

10. In comparing this presumably young person to the most beautiful days of spring and summer, the speaker uses similes and metaphors and finds them all to be inadequate. How does the poem progress in such a way that the reader begins to feel some significant suspense?

---

11. Beginning around the middle of the sonnet, where does Shakespeare use alliteration to bring literary beauty or reinforce the content of what is being said?

---

---

---

---

12. The central theme in “How do I love thee?” and in “Shall I compare thee . . . ?” is romantic love. What are some ways the two poems differ in emphasis when feelings of love are described?

Guided Questions for “Neither a borrower nor a lender be”

Answer the following questions in complete sentences.

1. Is this selection a sonnet? Explain your answer.

---

---

---

---

2. How would you describe the meter of this selection? How does the meter of this selection compare with that of a sonnet?

---

---

---

---

3. In this passage from Shakespeare’s play Hamlet, the character Polonius is giving some advice to his son, Laertes. What does Polonius mean when he says, “Give thy thoughts no tongue, / Nor any unproportion’d thought his act”?

---

---

---

---

4. In which lines does Polonius advise Laertes to recognize who his true friends are and to be suspicious of new people who enter his life? Where does Shakespeare use figurative language in these lines?

---

---

---

---

5. According to Polonius, why is it dangerous to lend money to someone?

---

---

---

---

6. What is the unifying theme of this selection? How does it differ from the theme of “Shall I compare thee . . . ?” How does Polonius differ from the speaker of “Shall I compare thee . . . ?”

“The Gettysburg Address”

by Abraham Lincoln

Note: President Abraham Lincoln delivered the following speech on November 19, 1863, at ceremonies honoring the battlefield cemetery at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, where an important battle of the American Civil War had taken place in July of that year.

1. Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.
2. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.
3. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion, that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Questions

9. Which literary device does Lincoln use in paragraph 1 of the speech?
  - A. hyperbole
  - B. allusion
  - C. sarcasm
  - D. irony

10. Read paragraph 1 from the speech.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Part A: Circle all of the words and phrases that create an extended birth metaphor in paragraph 1.

Part B: How does this metaphor contribute to the speech's message? How is it tied to the speech's final sentence?

---

---

---

---

---
